Think of the last time an online recommendation didn’t meet your expectations. What happened?

21 responses

I took into consideration for next time not to trust online recommendation without double checking

Too much people

Le lieu n’existait plus / était fermé donc on a dû trouver un truc cher à côté

It's Ok

I never came back

it was written as open but was closed

Actually last time was à la minute and it was amazing.

Communication didn't match the reality

I searched another place via Google Maps

It was a retreating and the door was just bland compared to what it was described as

Nothing for me, by luck

Restaurant

I paid more than expected and I didn't have what I needed (no water taken)

I didn’t go back and I certainly didn’t recommend it to or warned friends/family about it

Chose another place in the area that suits my needs

I stop beleiving social media

Decided never to go again or recommend to friends

Changed places

It is what it is

I found another place
